ROCHESTER

Enhance Your Editing Skills

Film editors play an instrumental role in the filmmaking process by way of editing and controlling the pace of a film. They have to be highly proficient technically and artistically.

At Rocheston School of Filmmaking, we transform students with a passion for editing into creative professionals in the film, television and web industry. Students not only learn how to enhance their editing skills but also understand all theoretical aspects of editing along with the art of narrating a film.
